Comments	Mr. Shull conducted interviews with Police Chief Michael Hurney and Tri-County Fire and Rescue Chief Rick Hobbs. The single family residence located at the southeast corner of Chestnut and Jefferson Avenue in Richland burned as a result of a suspected arson. The home had originally belonged to MR. Matt Sutcliff but had been unoccupied for more than ten years and all of the utilities had been removed. Recently, the property had been donated and deeded to the Tri-County Fire and Rescue Association. The fire debris was still in place at the burn site and Mr. Shull told both the police and fire chiefs since the house had only been used as a residential structure, the residential exemption for asbestos applied under the NESHAP regulations. Therefore, the house was not a regulated structure regardless of who the property owner may be. Mr. Shull advised the fire department the fire debris should be kept wet during removal and placed into a double lined roll-off for final disposal at a permitted sanitary landfill since any asbestos content is unknown. Mr. Shull also recommended the workers wear respiratory protection consisting of high efficiency particulate air (HEPA) filtered respirators and disposable protective clothing. The landfill should be notified in advance and advised of possible asbestos in the debris and check about any additional requirements for the landfill. The house is exempt from the NESHAP regulations.
